DETAILED ACTION

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Claims 76-91,95- 111,115 - 123, & 127 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over GB1474931, with a teaching by MERCK '67.

The rejection of record is maintained over amended claims specifying a particular dog; but see P. 1, lines 30 – 34; the offal is cooked, if desired. & (p.2, lines 15-18) & STORED IN HOME REFRIGERATORS ! -- clearly so done to feed particular pets, dogs or cats; not other animals fed in homes, in Germany in the '70s, offal , even if unstated. Merck is cited to show offal is a normal Dog feed (bottom of p. 1348).

Claims 145,146,163,164,176,177 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over G B – 1474931 and Magnant et al- 5787839 and Pedigree as a teaching reference, & further in view of Merck '67.

GB- (above) provides the instant claimed methods of administering specified amounts of specified feeds & feed components to specified animals, but does not describe a rigid containerization system. MAGNANT (of record) does (fig. 4,9, col3, top).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made desiring to utilize a container for feed, to use any of art recognized means, as of GB , Magnant. Motivation to use a specific container is shown by Magnant, for travel and exact ratios and amounts of feeds are within the purview of one in the art to attain, in order to optimize desired effects, such as control of specific nutritional needs, amount of feed depending on size, age, sex, & desires of the target. This is shown by Merck; elements of feed are known within 5% or their nutrient contents on p. 1349, water & fat; on p. 1350, more precise nutrient requirements are identified , & for a given dog weight, a balanced feed is shown to be determined. Failure to comply is addressed , for example at p. 54, obesity. Pedigree shows dog feed components, here "bones" is accurately weighed- 2 ounces.

All the critical elements of the instant are disclosed. The amounts and proportions of each ingredient are result effective parameters chosen to obtain the desired effects. It would be obvious to vary the form of each ingredient to optimize the effect desired, depending upon the particular pet of interest, desired nutrient component concentration, flavor &, cost consideration, with consideration of ingredient compatibility.

There is no non obvious and/or unexpected results obtained since the prior art is well aware of the use of feed for control of health and the use of nutrients & amounts thereof for the functionality for which they are known to be used is not a basis for patentability. There is no basis for patentability for determining feed for a specific dog, as the prior art is directed at providing packaging of feeds for " individual animals " (page 2, lines 16-18 of GB reference).

Applicant's arguments filed 6/19/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.. As shown above, dogs are at least one of the GB species to which the feed packaging apply, & are at least self evident that the feed is for specific pets, & putting the feeds in a rigid carrier is an obvious activity for one to do-frozen packages would remain viable for some time. Finally, examiner finds no patentable basis in this art for 15% or less , feed weight variation; precise weights to provide enhanced nutrition are evident as shown by Merck, & feeding too much would result in a fat dog; too little, perhaps a missing heart or liver from the cooks table.
